DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to the communication filed on May 1, 2001. Claims 1-5 are currently pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The basis of this rejection is set forth in a two-prong test of:

- (1) whether the invention is within the technological arts; and
- (2) whether the invention produces a useful, concrete, and tangible result.

For a claimed invention to be statutory, the claimed invention must be within the technological arts. Mere ideas in the abstract (i.e., abstract idea, law of nature, natural phenomena) that do not apply, involve, use, or advance the technological arts fail to promote the "progress of science and the useful arts" (i.e., the physical sciences as opposed to social sciences, for example) and therefore are found to be non-statutory subject matter. For a process claim to pass muster, the recited process must somehow apply, involve, use, or advance the technological arts.

In the present case, claims 1-5 only recites an abstract idea. The recited steps of merely performing an improved method of patent searching does not apply, involve, use, or advance the technological arts since all of the recited steps can be performed in the mind of the user or by use of a pencil and paper. These steps only constitute an idea of how to conduct a patent search.

The inventive concept is not tied to any technology and thus is merely an abstract idea.

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 USC 101 as Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution of the United States of America provides:

“The Congress shall have power...to promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries.”

Any patent issuing on claims 1-5 would have the effect of precluding The Congress from freely implementing any and all “Patent-License mechanism[s]” which it might see necessary and fit for the benefit of The People of the United States of America pursuant to Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution of the United States of America.

The United States Patent Office will not grant, to any inventive entity, the right to exclude others from practicing any patenting and licensing procedure ...for to do so would thereby constrain The Congress in freely exercising its power of promoting the progress of science and useful arts as specified in Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution of the United States of America.

Article 1, Section 8 of the United States Constitution assigns The Congress sole power to promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries. The Constitution does not recognize this power as a right of The People, such as Applicant or any other, nor does the Constitution delegate or extend this power to the US Patent Office.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over The Dialog Corporation, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as Dialog) in view of PTO Internet Access Guide, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as PTO).

Dialog discloses a method of patent searching comprising the steps of:

Making a computer search in the patent records of the USPTO for patents (page 1-3);

Making a computer search in the trademark records of the USPTO (pages 5-12 – Trademarkscan US Federal); and Making a computer search in the trademark records of the States (Page 5-12 – Trademarkscan – US States).

Dialog does not disclose making a computer search on the Internet,

However, PTO Internet Access Guide shows that the PTO had access to the PTO as early as 1997. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make a search over the Internet since the Internet was available as a searching tool at the PTO.

The examiner takes Official Notice that it is old and well known to manually search patent records and that it is old and well known to classify and perform searches based on the classification.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Burney discloses a method and system for rating patents and other intangible assets.

PTO Changes review process for business method patents discloses that the patent office expanded the search requirements for business methods.

Hadzima discloses database searching method for patents.
